

Dr. Raymond Wang is a Board-Certified Medical Biochemical Geneticist who has been at Children's Hospital of Orange County (CHOC) for the past 17 years, where he supervises a comprehensive program that encompasses clinical care, access to clinical trials, and laboratory-based translational research focusing upon lysosomal storage disorders such as Batten disease. The Batten Disease Program at CHOC has been advocating for Batten families, educating fellow medical colleagues, therapists, and school staff to raise awareness of the challenges Batten disease patients and their families face daily, and doing whatever is possible to improve daily life. Dr. Wang is tremendously honored and humbled to attend the 2024 BDSRA Annual Family Conference.
